Up until 1951 they used a 'CP' type gearbox and clutch which was then changed to the Burman 'B52' gearbox and clutch the following year (hence the 'B52' name). However, the 1951 models apparently used an intermediate combination of the old CP gearbox but with the new B52 clutch fitted.

One other note I have recently discovered about these gearboxes: the clutch type was changed in the CP gearbox in 1951 to the type which was used in the Burman (B52) gearbox from 1952 onwards. So in '51 gearboxes you get a pre-51 CP box but with the later post-52 Burman clutch. Must have been one of those changeover periods.

Burman BA Gearbox, How Does It Work? - YouTube

During 1952 the Burman 'GB' gearbox replaced the 'CP and 'BA' types on all models and is of much cleaner appearance as the clutch arm is inside the outer cover, but it should not be confused with the so called 'BAP' gearbox fitted to Panthers and AMC models which is a 'BA' (or 'CP') gearbox with the same enclosed clutch mechanism.

Burman's replacement for the CP and BAP was developed jointly with AMC and emerged in 1950 as the new transmission for the London firm's 350cc AJS 7R ohc single racer. Code named 7R 50, it featured a lightweight Elektron case, while both gearshafts ran on double-row roller bearings.
